5. Programmed Instruction in Language Training

25X1A

On 3 May [REDACTED] attended a demonstration given by the Language Laboratories Inc. (LLINC) on the use of programmed texts and tapes in the teaching of Spanish. The presentation was impressive and the LLINC Spanish Program might be the answer to JMWAVE's requirement for instruction in Spanish.

6. Project HELPFUL

The names of 40 principals and 15 alternates have been received for the next running of Project HELPFUL, 17-18 May.

7. School of International Communism

25X1A

[REDACTED] spoke to a group of junior Foreign Service Officers at the Headquarters Building on 1 May. I believe his comments on the meeting are of general interest and they are quoted as follows: "I have a strong suspicion that the rash of newspaper commentary about the Agency was clearly reflected in the session which I had with the FSO juniors at Headquarters last week. It was by all odds the most difficult and unpleasant I have ever experienced with a State Department group. I also suspect that they are not being discouraged by their mentors from making the Agency the scapegoat for foreign policy decisions (such as the intervention in the [REDACTED]) which they, the students, will assist.

9. Non-Agency Briefings

25X1A On 3 May [REDACTED] briefed 35 officers in the DIS Attache course on the "Nature and Significance of Strategic Intelligence." On 25X1A 4 May [REDACTED] briefed the officers and their wives on the "National Security Structure" and the "Responsibilities of the Agency within the USIB."

25X1A Also on 3 May [REDACTED] briefed 45 members of the Associate Military Intelligence Officer Career Course at Fort Holabird on

"Central Intelligence Agency - Organization and Operations."

10. Project USEFUL

The twelfth presentation of Project USEFUL took place at the Headquarters Building from 18-22 April 1966. Fifty officers, representing all of the Military Services, from 14 components of the Department of Defense, made up the student body. The course was conducted according to schedule, and from student critiques it was apparently well received.
